THE RIGHTS OF ARERICAN CITI-ZENS ABBOAD.

This question is attracting considerable atten-tion now, both in this country and abroad, par-ticularly in England. A naturalized efficies, who has awors allegiance to the United States Gov-ernment, is entitled to all the rights, privileges, erament, is entitled to all the rights, privileges, and immunities that belong of right to the native-born American, excepting this: he is not eligible to the Presidency. No make an be elected President except he be a native-born American. In accordance with the theory that the cour Government observes in all cases towards the naturalized citizen in our own land, the sequally beauth to defend and protect all afthe when traveling in foreign lands. Some foreign Governments have failed to recognize our naturalization laws, and have treated these laws as of no effect. In other words, when an individual born on a foreign shore, has visited the land of his birth, his papers proving his citizenship in this country have been totally disregarded and set saide as of no account, and these men have been competible to serve in the armies of their native land.

been compelled to serve in the armies of their native land.

This conduct of foreign Powers has been more especially manifested by England and Prussis. This question has been before Congress recently, and has been somewhat thoroughly discussed, and all who have read the debates for the past few days have had the general principles of this question explained to them. We need not dwell, then, upon this subject as a matter of law that needs explaining, or as a matter of right not well understood by the American people. Our people understand the law, and they lake understand the rights which inhere fundamentally in the premises. To speak practical dandamentally in the premises. To speak practical they also understand the rights which inhere undamentally in the premises. To speak practi-rally, then, all we have to say is, we must take measures at once to make foreign Governments understand these laws and these rights; and, what is more, we must make them respect the away and the rights of our citizens under the law. Henceforth it must be enough for any man's protection and safety in a foreign country for him to say, I am an Amanicas citizens. And there must be no distinction between him who is re must be no distinction between him who is a mative and to the mano becomes an American citizen from choice, trust that the country is now sufficiently used to back up the Government in every per effort that may be needed to assert and intain, at any and every hazard, these rights.

Senator Morrill reported with smeadments the bill making appropriations to supply deficiencies in the appropriations for the execution of the reconstruction laws and for the service of the Quartermaster's Department for the year ending June 56, 1833. The amendments give increased compensation to the Congressional printer, supplies declencies in the contingent expenses of the House of Representatives and Senate, and appropriates sums to and Senate, and appropriates sums to ious other matters, can'er Howard introduced a resolution ap-priating the sum of $15,000 to defray the ex-sea of the Joint Select Committee on Ord-ce, which was twice read and referred to the nnes, which was twice read and referred to the ommittee on Appropriations.

Nenator Henderson introduced a very impor-nit bill in relation to our diamees, which was id on the table and ordered to be printed. The il provides for the consolidation of all the na-onal securities into long bonds, bearing not more one three and a half per cent. interest per an-am, payable semi-samouslity, the principal and terest of the bonds to be paid in gold, and to be curred against faxation by State authority. The repeal of the provision in the national niking laws limiting the amount of the cur-ery to $200,000 to is also provided for, so that day of adjourning over until Monday, and by subsequent vote decided to meet again to-day.

$\text{500,000,000} is also provided for, so that depositing the new bonds may receive al carrency for the purpose of circulation extent of 75 per cent. of the amount of isposition. Other important features are used into the bill, and it is well worth :

How Money May be Saved.

It is an old axiom that "a penny saved is a penny earned." We may conclude that this sound principle of economy is just as appli-cible to the Government as it is to the individ-uila, and therefore, wheever suggests to the powers that be a way to stop leaks does a good thing.

ting.
We know of no method by which more money squandered to no valuable purpose than is asted by the appointment of what are called averligating committees. If anybody can polar investigating committees. If anybody can point out any advantages which have ever been obtained by the investigations which have been made and published from time to time setting forth the corruptions and the malfeasance is office of Government of malfeasance in office of Government we think that in almost every instance these inquiries of committees into the conduct of officials have ended in summoning wifnesses, in paying miseage, in insidentals, which are not few nor small, and in yearing voluminour experts which nobody ever reals. The committees labor, and labor hard, and they bring forth their report, and somebody or many somebodies, as the case may be, are found guilty; and there the matter ends. Who thinks of reading eight hundred or a thousand pages to find out how John Smith defrauded the Government, or how John Jones is a knace and unfit to hold a public office. All this sort of investigation rises a vast sum of money—how much that few can ever know. An investigation into the cost of these committees would alarm the country, especially when it is known that no practical benefits have ever been attained by them.

But it imay be calcid, how shall corruption in high places be exposed, or malfeasance in office be detected, unless three be investigation? Precisely; but a newspaper reporter or a good Government detective can ferret out these bining, and the courts are open to try those people who defraud the Government. Let Congress, then, put a stop to the appointment of these extra committees as far as possible, and a large sum will be vaved to the Treasury.

Cononnas has passed one important bill, which has been sent to the President for his signature. It is as follows:

Be it enseted, for. That from and after this date no distilled spirits shall be withdrawn or removed from any warehouse for purposes of transportation, rectification, change of package, exportation, or for any other purpose whatever, until the full tax on such apicits shall have been paid; and all acts and parts of asts inconstant with the provisions hereof are hereby repealed.

GREAT ARRIETY is felt by the "anxions ones" regarding confirmations, as it is expected that a large number of the nominations in the hands of the Senate will be acted upon during the coming week, Senators being desirous of disposing of those sent in and prolouging their duly accessors for the disposal of business more important to the country.
